FIFTH ARMY STEPS UP CASSINO ASSAULTS

Germans Foiled In Attempt to Break Anzio Beachhead

Three Enemy Thrusts Are Directed Against American Positions West of Cisterna, But Are Beaten Back By Doughboys

PIERCE FIGHTING AGAINST STIFF RESISTANCE

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Feb. 10.—(P)—The Germans have launched a strong attempt to break through Allied lines on the Anzio beachhead, striking at six points along the American-British defense perimeter, headquarters announced today, as violent fighting continued in the ruins of Cassino.

The fiercest of the beachhead attacks came in the area north and west of Carroccio (Aprilia), where heavy fighting continued as British forces sought to stem the enemy plunges.

Three of the enemy thrusts were directed against American positions west of Cisterna, but were beaten back, and the doughboys recaptured some ground.

American troops of the Fifth Army who have plunged into Cassino from the north and south still are fighting fiercely in the streets against determined enemy resistance, headquarters announced today.

Allied bombers, in sweeps off the west coast of Italy yesterday, hit three merchant vessels near Corsica and one in Nice harbor, the announcement said.

Hard fighting raged on the beachhead below Rome as German forces probed the American and British defense positions in a continuing attempt to drive the Allies back to the sea.

On some sections of the Cassino front the enemy launched counter-attacks, the communique said, but all were repulsed.

The Yanks made slight progress in Cassino although the Germans still held the main portions of the town as well as the crest of the hill on which is perched the ancient monastery just west of the town. German and American tanks clashed in the close street fighting.

A mile and a half northwest of Cassino the Germans counter-attacked at Monte Albaneta, but were beaten back. Below Cassino, the British advanced against Monte Ornito, two and a half miles north of Castellote, gaining slightly and repulsing two attacks.

Action on the Eighth Army front was limited to patrolling because of adverse weather.

Medium bombers supported ground troops on the Anzio beachhead by attacking enemy road communications behind the lines with light aircraft bombed German gun positions and motor transport in the Cisterna area.

Gotham Newsstand Is Doing Rushing Business

New York, Feb. 10.—(P)—That newsstand in Times Square which sells more out-of-town newspapers than any other place in the country—reports that it's doing a "turn-away" business.

More than 300 servicemen and women are turned down daily in requests for out-of-town newspapers and the number is "substantially higher" on Saturdays and Sundays, the Hotelling News Agency said today.

Explaining that publishers had been forced to reduce allotments and sometimes cut them out altogether because newsprint supplies were so tight, the agency said:

"Sometimes servicemen and civilians wait an hour or more at the newsstand until their local newspaper arrives. It's difficult to console them because we can't get out-of-town papers because of the newsprint shortage."

Yugoslav Guerillas Joined By British

London, Feb. 10.—(P)—Marshall Broz (Tito) announced in a broadcast communique from his Yugoslav headquarters today that guerillas had been joined by British units on Hvar—a strategic island which forms a bridgehead between the Balkans.

aval and military quarters in London said they had no reports of landing operation, however, assumed it had not yet developed on a large scale. Any such action would be directed from the Balkans.

has been disclosed that British command groups are with the Yanks and that extensive supplies are being shoved across the Adriatic to the Yugoslavs.

Scouts of County to Help In Whirlwind Bond Sale Drive

To "Be Prepared" is one of the chief aims of the Boy Scouts. How well the local Scout Council exemplifies this phrase was shown yesterday when the Scouts of Warren County were asked to dig in and help with a whirlwind drive to clean up odds and ends of the 4th War Loan campaign.

When Merle H. Deardorff, chairman of the Warren County War Finance Committee, called on Byron W. Knapp, chairman of the Campaign and Activities Committee, Warren County Council, Boy Scouts of America, Mr. Knapp, assisted by Chester R. Seymour, Scout executive, was willing and ready. It was explained to the Scout officials that this would be in the nature of a "cleaners after the reapers" campaign and that the Scouts could render a real service to their country by bringing the campaign to a speedy conclusion.

Mr. Knapp and his committee are optimistic. They figure that the Scouts will enter this campaign with the same zeal and zest they have shown in hanging up such splendid records in campaigns for waste paper, tin cans and other salvage drives. To start the boys off with the proper directives a portion of the Scouts "Get-together" program, scheduled as a feature of Boy Scout Week, to be held at Warren High School tomorrow night will be devoted to a discussion of this War Loan Drive.

Scouts throughout the Borough and County will set forth early tomorrow.

Soldier Vote Issue Is Going To Committee

Washington, Feb. 10.—(P)—Congress bundled up its controversy over votes for the armed forces today and headed it toward a senate-house conference committee, hopefully seeking a compromise that will look good both to states righters and to federal ballot advocates.

The senate is expected to name its conferees today to start working over the bill—converted into a legislative hodgepodge of state ballots and federal ballots by two weeks of bitter debate.

The bill now carries the administration's plan to send uniform absentee ballots to voters overseas, and it also contains the house-passed measure which would require states to provide for the vote of their citizens.

German Prisoners Working On Farms

Bridgeport, N. J., Feb. 10.—(P)—Under constant guard, 165 German war prisoners who fought in the African campaign are working in the orchards and the dehydration plants of Seabrook Farms, a large commercial enterprise.

The prisoners, interned in a former Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Urvain State Park, volunteered for the work, said Jack Seabrook, vice-president and general manager of the farms.

They are paid 80 cents a day for their own use, with the remainder of the basic 50 cents an hour pay going for maintenance of prison camps in this country.

Seabrook said the Germans were "very much pleased" with their jobs pruning in the orchards and working in the processing plants. Much of the product goes to the United States armed forces. Non-commissioned officers among the prisoners act as foremen of the work crew.

Early Closing of London Pubs Stealing Headlines in Papers

By JAMES F. KING
London, Feb. 10.—(P)—The high price of women's hats and the early closing of London bars are stealing headlines from the war in this capital of empire.

A good many Britons, who have demonstrated a knack for keeping their eyes on the basic things in life even after more than four years of war, seem to be indignant about both.

The idea of the pubs closing before they are forced to by law heretofore was practically unheard of in this country of beer drinkers. Many of them are doing so now, however, and heated demands have been made that something be done about it. The question even has been brought up before the home secretary.

The matter of women's hat prices even has been aired in the house of commons. Hugh Dalton, chairman of the board of trade, was called on by one member of the house to explain both about prices and shapes of hats—but he skillfully dodged the issue and promised an investigation.

Milliners don't seem to think there's anything wrong with current hat prices, which range from $2 to $40.

DIPLOMATIC PREPARATIONS FOR INVASION

Maneuvering in Full Swing in Washington and London, With Spain, Finland, France On Spot

DEVELOPMENTS NEAR

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Feb. 10.—(P)—Diplomatic preparations for the invasion of Europe appear to be in full swing in Washington and London now with Spain, France, Italy and Finland as focal points of developing Allied foreign policy.

The objective is two-fold—to split off from Germany as much outside support and cooperation as possible, and to pave the way for invading forces striking from both the north and south.

Expected developments include: France—P. oaded recognition of the authority of the French National Committee of Liberation at Algiers which will assure its right to govern liberated areas of France until reasonably normal civil machinery can be set up to give them a voice in government.

Italy—Reconsideration of the question of keeping King Vittorio Emanuele in power, a step which may result in his getting out before the Allied armies reach Rome; also expansion of the territory in southern Italy under the jurisdiction of the Italian government.

Spain—Close observation of the means which the Franco government employs to make good its announced intention of maintaining "strict neutrality." This is what the Allies want, instead of a "neutrality" favorable to Germany.

Finland—Use of whatever diplomatic measures may be possible in conjunction with Russian military actions, such as the recent bombings of Helsinki, to get Finland out of the war. Some authorities believe it still is not too late for the Finns to make peace with Russia and Britain and preserve their territorial integrity but they have little time in which to act.

A change in the American policy toward the French committee, headed by General Charles De Gaulle, as foreshadowed by disclosure in official quarters yesterday that the subject is under consideration by President Roosevelt at the War Department. Some announcement may be forthcoming from the White House soon.

Stockholm, Feb. 10.—(P)—Peace-hungry Finland, caught as a German ally in the middle of a war she never wanted, was reported seeking a way out today on the basis of an American warning to act now or take the consequences.

A Helsinki dispatch said there was a "possibility that preliminary decisions were taken" at a cabinet session last night and added that the Finnish public "knows how important" any decisions will be.

At the same time the independent Helsinki Sanomat, making the first Finnish editorial comment on U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull's recent statement, declared that when the United States appeals to Finland to "step out of the war, this finds a deep echo among our peace-loving people."

The Helsinki dispatch, written by the correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter, said the cabinet meeting, a regular Wednesday night session, was preceded during the day by a closed council of the parliamentary foreign policy committee at which Sir Henrik Ramsay, foreign minister, reviewed the situation for an hour.

The correspondent said Finnish political circles had voiced criticism of the government for failing to inform the committee earlier of the situation.

Russian Pincers Close in on Ten Enemy Divisions

Once All-Powerful Eastern Front of Invaders Crumbling at Many Points Under Staggering Sledge-Hammer Blows

RETREAT WEST OF APOSTOLOVO IS A DEBACLE

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Feb. 10.—(P)—Germany's once all-powerful eastern front was crumbling at many points today under the staggering sledge-hammer blows of seven Russian armies.

In the vast reaches of the lower Ukraine the Nazi retreat approached a rout as the tentacles of a great Red army pincer closed on disorganized remnants of the German divisions.

Between 10 and 15 battered German divisions trapped in the rain-soaked steppe country between Cherkassy and Nikolai, 200 miles to the south.

German dead littered the battlefields as the combined Third and Fourth Ukrainian armies under Gen. Tolbukhin and Malinovsky turned the German retreat west of Apostolovo into a debacle, outflanked the great iron ore center of Krivoi Rog from the south and surged westward to imperil the Kiev-Nikolaev railway, sole remaining escape route left to the fleeing enemy.

Forty towns were captured in this tremendous drive to clear the Ukraine of the invading Germans, including the important stronghold of Radushynoye, less than eight miles from heavily-fortified Krivoi Rog, a Soviet communique said.

In the Dnieper death circle, north and east of the towns of Shipola and Sventigorodka, the first and second Ukrainian armies under Gen. Vatutin and Konev stormed and captured the important town of Shipola, killing hundreds of Germans, taking many prisoners and sweeping up great quantities of loot.

The Gliz-Rijen attack probably knocked out many enemy fighters which would have been in the air against the Brunswick-attacking Fortresses had the Dutch fighter base been left undisturbed.

No figures on planes shot down on the Brunswick attack, or on Fortress losses, were available immediately from the U. S. Airforce. On a trip Jan. 11 to Brunswick, Oscherleben and Halberstadt the Yank forces lost 60 heavy bombers but shot 152 Nazi fighters from the sky. The heavies went back to Brunswick and Hannover Jan. 30 and shot down 91 enemy aircraft while losing 20 bombers.

The U. S. Airforce now has conducted 10 major operations against the continent in the last 13 days.

Truckers Must Abide By Rules Of the OPA

The Office of Defense Transportation has announced the issuance of an order, effective February 1st, prescribing the procedure which motor truck operators must follow in applying for O. D. T. approval of proposals to extend present operations or to institute new services over a route or within a territory not being served by the applicant as a motor carrier of property on October 25, 1943.

Earl J. Donor, District Manager of the ODT Motor Transport at Erie, Pa. today emphasized that any expansion of trucking operations must have the prior approval of the Office of Defense Transportation. A motor truck operator seeking to expand his operations must apply to the Manager of the ODT Motor Transport District office in which his operating headquarters are located.

The approval of such an extension or inauguration of trucking services, explained Mr. Donor will be given only under the following conditions: (1) When such service is necessary to the war effort or the maintenance of essential civilian economy; (2) when it cannot be performed by existing means of transportation or when existing service is not as convenient or expeditious as the proposed service and a positive need directly related to the war effort is shown, or when it will conserve existing transportation facilities; (3) when the proposed service will contribute directly and in an important degree to the effort or is needed to sustain the health and welfare of civilians or when the new service can be furnished without additional demands on critical materials or manpower.

While formal approval of an extension of trucking service is authorized by the issuance of an order by the District Manager, Mr. Donor pointed out that performance of such service is subject to operation ing authority that may be required from appropriate state or Federal regulatory bodies.

Mr. Donor said that the Motor Transport District Manager of the ODT may rescind any order approving expanded trucking operations when the facts upon which the order was issued were misrepresented or when conditions which warranted the issuance of the order no longer exist. The new order applies to all rubber-borne trucking operations—common, contract and private carriers.

Vital Statistics of Sylvania Interesting

Engagements occurred at the rate of more than eight a week in the plants of Sylvania Electric Products during 1943, it has been announced in the company magazine, the BEAM. In exactly 62 per cent of the engagements the intended groom was a member of the armed services. In computing vital statistics for the second year of war the BEAM found that the number of weddings had decreased slightly from 382 to 372.

Births showed a healthy increase over the previous year, rising from 170 to 211. Despite the war, girls outnumbered boys by the narrow margin of 110 to 101. Apparently the greatest number of births occurred in May, the total for this month being almost a third higher than for any other. Greatly exceeding the international average of once in every 87 births, Sylvania parents produced four sets of twins.

County Forging Ahead In Collection of Waste Fats

Warren county is rapidly forging ahead in the collection of waste fats.

This is the outstanding fact of a report issued this morning by W. T. Corbett, chairman of the Warren County Salvage Committee, covering the month of January, 1944. Total waste fats collected during January amount to 5,669 pounds; a gain of 1,934 pounds over December. Mr. Corbett pointed out that only 321 pounds more are needed to reach the country's quota of 6,000 pounds per month. It is hoped that this figure will be reached in February. The January collection is the largest of any month since the war began.

For the month of February

Warren county has been given a quota of 214 tons of waste paper; this is considerably more than we have been shipping to date, and a strong and concerted effort will be needed to reach this figure. Mr. Corbett said. The complete report for the month of January follows:

Iron and Steel Scrap—383.54 gross tons.
Copper, Bronze, and Brass—16,693 pounds.
Waste Paper—52 tons.
Used Household Fats—5,669 pounds.

Rags—2,850 pounds.
Two cars of tin cans were shipped on February 2, but as yet the gross weight has not been received.

Girl Scout Council Elects New Members

Warren County Girl Scout Council met at the Girl Scout office Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. W. C. Fuelhart reporting for the finance committee that the campaign for funds in Ludlow is nearly completed with $150 in view.

New members elected to Council for three-year terms are Mrs. Harold Blair, Mrs. Everett Eddy, Mrs. F. M. Geer, Mrs. B. J. Messerly and Mrs. H. A. Rinard.

The resignation of Mrs. Karl Nichols, who has served for several years as secretary and Juliette Low representative on the local Girl Scout council, was received with regret.

The proposed constitution of the Council of Community agencies was read by Mrs. D. E. Conway and accepted by the Council. Mrs. C. Vance Weld, commissioner, and Mrs. A. N. Correll, executive secretary, were elected delegates to the new organization.

The public relations committee recommended that a public dinner be held to report the progress of Girl Scouting during the past year and to celebrate the 32nd birthday of Girl Scouting. The plan was approved and the meeting will be held at the YWCA Wednesday, March 15.

Mrs. Weld announced that the following chairmen have consented to head committees in 1944: Camp, Mrs. F. L. Abendroth; finance, John G. Rosman; organization, Mrs. N. K. Wendelboe; program, Mrs. H. A. Rinard; public relations, Mrs. B. J. Messerly; service bureau, Mrs. J. R. Elliott; staff and office, Mrs. N. K. Wendelboe; training, Mrs. H. G. Stohl; advisory, Mrs. R. W. Mackay; American Girl representative, Mrs. C. M. Farrell.

TIMES TOPICS

CLARENDON VFW

Marshall Larsen Post, 314, VFW will meet at eight o'clock this evening in the Clarendon IOOF hall and every man is asked to be on hand.

TO MEET THURSDAY

The Federation of Clubs will meet at the Moose Temple tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Several matters of importance are to be considered.

ONLY TWO IN JAIL

At the present time William Dirling, keeper of the Warren county jail only has two boarders in his apartments de luxe. This is the smallest number of guests that "Bill" has had in some time.

DESERTER PICKED UP

John W. Switzer, of Grass Flats, Pa., was picked up by police last evening in one of the eating places of the city. The man admitted that he had been AWOL from Camp Reynolds, at Shenango for the past three weeks. He was locked up and the camp authorities notified and a Military policeman will call for him in a short time.

TRUCK HIT POLE

A truck of the General Petroleum Products Company, driven by Don Chestnut yesterday at noon hit a pole on Pennsylvania avenue, west. The pole was damaged and a fire alarm box attached to the pole was also damaged. Chestnut was removed to his home before the police arrived.

WARREN GETS MONEY

The State Department of Highways approved payment of $11,734.24 from the Motor License Fund for the second class townships of Warren county. In all the fund was tapped for $875,000 for the improvement of township roads under the direction of the township supervisors. The sum is mainly spent for maintenance.

ISLAND REPORTED MOVING

The island above the Glade Run bridge is reported by a number of residents of that vicinity to be moving down stream. They mark the movement by a large tree which they aver is being shoved down stream. According to the observers the island has a gravel base and the force of the water and ice is moving the earth and vegetation on top of the gravel downstream. Many scoff at the observation but the "island movers" cling to their theory.

EXPRESS BUSINESS GROWS

The business of the Railway Express Company is growing in fine shape, according to Agent Gilmore. In receipts the upswing is from 45 to 55% ahead of last year and the shipments are up 18 to 20%. Due to a rush order at a Jamestown plant products of which must be in Washington, D. C., as soon as possible an express truck from Jamestown is being driven to Warren every evening and the shipments made from here direct to the capital. This will continue until the order is filled.

RINGING DOORBELLS

In accord with an order just received by Postmaster James K. Bell the mail carriers are now ringing doorbells. When they have mail for a home they will ring the door bell and if no one answers the mail will be placed in the mailbox. Thefts of mail have become so frequent of late with the mails filled with soldiers checks that the new order goes into effect in an effort to check this. Years ago the mail carriers used whistles to announce their presence.

MAY CHANGE SCHEDULE

Reports are current that due to a change in the bus schedule of the Edwards Bus Company between Pittsburgh and Kane there may be a change in the West Ridge but from Kane to Warren in the afternoon. The Edwards bus gets into Kane 35 minutes after the Warren bus leaves at present and the schedule may be so shifted that persons from Ridgway and points south could make the Warren bus out of Kane. The change would prove a great convenience to many who use the bus from Kane to Warren.

Containers Must Be Used Over Again

Fruit and vegetable growers and associations interested in obtaining supplies of used containers were urged today to contact the nearest Office of Distribution of the War Food Administration by Richard D. Clark, Area Supervisor. For the Erie area this office is located at 304 Security People Bank Building, Erie, Pa.

Every container will have to be used and reused, he said. If producers do not start stockpiling now for 1944 use, thus giving dealers a market for their stored containers, the salvage of certain types of containers may be discontinued for lack of storage space.

Mr. Clark also emphasized necessity for using types of containers on hand even if these do not conform to former practices.

Service Men Enjoy Gifts Sent To Them

Youngsville, Feb. 9.—At this week's meeting of the Youngsville Service Club held in the IOOF dining room, the attendance was very good. Mrs. Elgie Redmond, the president, presided. A number of interesting letters of appreciation for the Christmas boxes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Willis Kinnear. One letter was from Italy and another from Finland. One lad wrote that the Service Club Christmas box was the only gift he received at the holiday season. His letter did not arrive for a month. As the enrollment of local boys and girls in service is now about 211, with more names to be added soon, it has been decided to send one month to the lads overseas and the next to the boys in this country. Mrs. Kinnear, the secretary, will appreciate it if the letters or relatives of those in service will keep the addresses up to date. Please write or phone when address is changed. This week boxes of paper were sent to U. S. A. addresses reported at the January meeting. The boxes of special air mail stationery, with a few air mail stamps and other things, are to be sent to overseas service men have not yet arrived, though ordered. When they come a special meeting of the Service Club will be called to pack boxes. Mrs. John Thompson, treasurer, had a list of recent contributions,

Ministers of Area Approve Bridge Project

all of which are appreciated. It was reported that the Business Men's Association at their last meeting made plans for contributions of the fund.

NEW BOOKS FOR LIBRARY
The following are new books just received at the Youngsville library: "The Signpost", by E. A. Robertson; "The Apostle", by Sholem Asch; "Indigo", Christine Weston; "Here is Your War", Ernie Pyle; "Nobody Lives Forever", W. R. Burnett; "A Bell for Adano", John Hershey.

Youngsville library has also received a donation of books from the Warren library. Some of these were duplicates of those already in the Warren library, but all are new to Youngsville library.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING
Youngsville school board met this week and completed considerable routine work. A letter was received from E. C. Sullings, who has been elected principal of the Youngsville school, but as yet arrangements are not completed for his leaving his present position to take up the work here.

ARVID FREDBORG

Since Pearl Harbor, little creditable information has seeped out about the happenings inside Germany. This veil is in part lifted in "Behind the Steel Wall" by Arvid Fredborg, who was Swedish correspondent in Berlin from February 1941, until May, 1943, when, having fallen in disfavor with the Nazis, he was forced to leave.

Among the sensational stories Fredborg tells is one about the death of Heydrich, the Hangman. Heydrich, he reveals, was murdered, not by the Czechs, but by three fellow S.S. officials. They had stolen a fortune in Poland, but Heydrich had taken it away from them for himself. They murdered him out of revenge.

One of the more unsuccessful propaganda devices of the Germans was the opening of an exhibition, called "The Soviet Paradise." This was a "warranted genuine" collection of Russian dwelling places—horribly squalid outhouses filled with rags—brought from Minsk, it was declared. After the close of the exhibition a joke went the rounds in Berlin: "Why did they close the Soviet Paradise?"—"Because the people in North Berlin wanted their things back."

In Vienna, which Fredborg visited in February, 1943, he read this item in the classified columns of a daily newspaper: "Anything useful as food in exchange for a large number of portraits of the Fuehrer."

Speaking of "Der Fuehrer," Konrad Heiden, in his book similarly titled, says the original title of "Mein Kampf" was "Four and a Half Years of Struggle Against Lies, Stupidity and Cowardice." Back in 1919, according to Heiden, Corporal Hitler served as a stool pigeon against his fellow soldiers in the Munich revolution.

A few years later he spent three years in a Viennese flop house. The future No. 1 Nazi, it seems, was too proud to earn his own living.

"Evil incarnate might be the sub-title of this book," reports Dr. Henry Seidel Canby for the Book-of-the-Month Club, which selected it. In "Der Fuehrer," Heiden, who knew Hitler in the days when he was a political joke, and his "movement," a motley collection of crackpots and hoodlums, presents an authoritative and devastating picture not only of the Fuehrer, but of the whole foul business called National Socialism.

On the bombed and ruined streets of Warsaw one bitter afternoon in December 1940, was found the emaciated body of one of Poland's most beloved poets and story-tellers, K. P. Tetmajer. Now available to American readers is a collection of Tetmajer's wonderful stories, "Tales of the Tatars."

Chapter 10

MR. MAREK DORR'S car, please!" The voice of the doorman cracked over the loud speaker system and poured out into the parking lot where rows of cars were drawn up in even lines. Marek and Julie waited in the soft, diffused light that was sifting through the glass bricks. "Ten minutes of eleven," he said. "The time most people are just starting out for an evening and here we are going home."

"Serves you right for associating with a factory worker," Julie laughed.

"You mean a modern Cinderella? You know she always had to be in on the stroke of twelve."

The car stopped by the steps and the uniformed doorman swung open the door. Julie had just started to get in when she heard the voice behind her.

She whirled. It was David. Julie caught her breath.

"David Rutledge! What on earth—"

"I've been looking for you," David said evenly. "Had a letter from home—they sent me your address—called your apartment but you had left. Just took a shot in the dark on this place."

Julie poured out a barrage of questions and David answered them briefly. Marek stood there smoking and watching the rapid expression on Julie's face.

"Ready, Field?" Julie said.

"How long will you be there?"

"The usual answer to that is that the General hasn't yet seen fit to take me into his confidence."

SHE noticed Marek then and felt the hot color rise to her cheeks.

"I'm terrible sorry, Marek. This is Lt. David Rutledge, a boy from home town. David, this is Marek Dor."

David looked keenly at Marek as he shook his hand.

"Not Marek Dor the movie producer?"

"That's right," Marek nodded, "and Julie here is about to be a star."

David smiled. "That role would fit Julie like a glove."

Julie's eyes were shining as she looked at him. "You will call me when you have some time off," she said.

Chapter 11

JULIE began throwing off her evening clothes with swift, ecstatic gestures.

Kay caught them and hung them up as Julie slid into the rough denim and shirt.

"The home town flame, eh?" she said.

Julie nodded. "He was looking for me," she said softly. "Ran into us tonight at Earl Carroll's. He's a Brady Field."

Suddenly she whirled about and caught Kay around the waist to dance a wild jig around the small bedroom.

Kay finally pulled to a stop, laughing and gasping. "You do have it bad, sister!" she cried, shaking her blonde head wisely. "Better come out and get a cup of cocoa before we start. I bet you didn't eat anything tonight."

Julie shook her head. "I couldn't eat anything now," she declared. She gave a dismayed scream as she slipped on her watch.

"I've made you late! You shouldn't have waited."

Kay came in from the kitchen with their packed lunch boxes. "I called Jack Parker," she said. "A pal from engineering. He's stopping by."

They were slipping into their coats when the three piping honks sounded below. They ran down to the car, just as a tall, sandy-haired young man leaped the front steps.

"Hi," Kay grinned at him amiably. "Julie, this is Jack Parker, Julie Brampton."

JACK looked at Julie and made a gesture of removing an imaginary hat. "Pleasure is all—and sorry to be late," he babbled. He looked them across the sidewalk and into his coupe.

"Don't mind him," Kay murmured to Julie as they started off with a spurt that threw them against the dashboard. "Jack's all ways in a hurry. This war to him

"Sure," David said easily. "Maybe next week."

Marek looked at his watch. "It's after eleven," he said quietly.

"Is there a curfew for movie stars?" David's little boy grin robbed his words of sarcasm.

"Definitely," Marek said. "They must get their beauty sleep, you know."

Julie's face was pressed against the window of the car as it moved slowly forward out of the driveway, and she caught a last glimpse of David as he stood in the light of the entrance. Then they were in the line of traffic on Sunset, turning north on Vine.

Marek sat in silence, smoking. Julie looked unseeing at the rapidly changing panorama of shop windows they were passing, her mind filled with David. To see him again, to hear his voice. It was like a little corner of heaven had been suddenly thrown open to her.

Marek crushed out his cigarette. His voice brought Julie out of her reverie.

"DANA ARNO was in my office this afternoon," he said. "Heard some of the music from 'Let Freedom Ring.' He's a tough critic, but he's crazy about the show."

"That's wonderful," Julie murmured.

"He agreed with me that a little musical fluff is what the box office craves right now. There's been too much heavy drama lately. We get enough of that in newspapers and over the radio. So it looks like you might make your debut in the hit of the season."

The car went over the pass and came down the long winding descent into the valley. Dim lights flung wide in a checkered pattern beneath them. In the pale glow from a misty moon the huge buildings of the studio stood out in shadowy relief. Marek pointed them out to her.

"I never come down this road and see the studio overlooking this valley that I don't get a thrill out of it," he admitted.

"You love your work, don't you?" Julie said.

He nodded. "And not because of the so-called fame and making a lot of money. It's the im-is a foot race between him and Hitler."

Jack threw Julie an abashed grin. "He's nice, Julie thought. Eager and sincere. Like Dave."

"I've had the devil's own time getting any dinner," Jack was growling. "Had to wait—hour. Darn restaurant's getting—"

"I can see it coming," Kay sighed. "One of these fine weeks we're going to have a boarder on our hands."

They passed their bus half way to the plan, and drew a sigh of relief. They were moving in a long stream of cars toward the gate into the Empire parking lot, that covered acres.

Absently she listened to Jack Parker talk of his work. Nothing definite, of course. Engineers were clamoring it came to giving out any information. But he was in a glow of enthusiasm over the blueprints of the new bomber.

"Going to be the nearest thing with wings," he boasted. "The way we've shaved off wind resistance—like a rocket—and handles—"

KAY laughed at Julie's puzzled face. "Never mind," she murmured. "You'll get used to him. After a while your mind just automatically throws enough extra words in the slots to make sense of it."

"Haven't—time to talk—for years," Jack threw the car around the corner and in the gate, slid into place in the twentieth row and switched off the ignition.

He started toward the door of engineering at a dog trot, waving back at the girls.

"Take you home?"

"No!" called Kay. She laughed as she and Julie started towards their workroom. "There's a man who loves his work. Darn good engineering."

"What department is he in?" Julie asked.

"Aerodynamics," Kay told her. "Wouldn't do any good if he could talk you just can't under-pressions our pictures make on the minds of millions of people all over the world that fascinates me. The fact that I'm controlling a force that helps shape their lives—influences how they live, what they wear, how they talk, even what they think."

"You're kind of an invisible leader," Julie mused.

"I suppose that's the instinct I'm gratifying," Marek conceded. "Anyway, you'll understand what I mean after you're in it a while. It gets in your blood."

As the car slipped through the brief curtains of light from the street lamps, Julie studied the even features of the man beside her, stamped so deeply with tension and power. His driving purpose frightened her suddenly. She said a little shakily:

"You've been wonderful to me. I hope I won't disappoint you."

He flashed her a brief smile. "Why should you?"

"Oh, it's just that sometimes I feel so unsure of myself. Like an impostor. Posing as an actress when I'm really not."

"ACTING is an art, my dear, and can be mastered. I've told you that before."

The car stopped in front of the apartment house and Julie saw the light gleaming from their window.

"It's eleven-thirty," Marek said. "I'll wait until you change and take you over to the plant."

"Thanks anyway, but I'll have time. It only takes me a few minutes to change."

Marek brought Julie up to the steps and then turned to go.

"Better plan on getting your release in about a week," he said. "You'll need all your time with dictation lessons, dancing and regular calisthenics."

On every step that Julie took up the long flight to their room her mind was shouting, "David's here, David's here, David's here!"

Kay was dressed in her overalls ready for work when Julie burst into the room. Kay saw the look in her eyes.

"You look mighty contented about something," Kay laughed.

Julie fled through the room into the bedroom and started to change. "David's here!" she called out.

stand the stuff. He graduated from Dartmouth and—"

"He did!"

Julie's blank surprise amused Kay. "I think," she teased, "you still believe everyone around here is a reformed ditchdigger."

Julie laughed as they stopped to show their badges. "Well, people in glass houses—" she murmured.

For once she didn't mind the thought—or the horde of workers she was caught up in as they made their way into the high-ceilinged factory.

She hung up her coat in the long line of coats that stretched halfway across the building and put her lunchpail on its place.

SHE went to the tool crib for her rivet-gun and bucket of rivets. Her teammate, who bucked rivets was waiting at their jug. Julie plugged in the rivet-gun and started to work, but her mind was a warm pool of memories.

She and Dave coming back to Melbridge on the same college train at Christmas—sleigh rides and club dances—the New Year's party—Dave kissing her under the mistletoe. . . . And Summers. . . long, lazy, hot days at the lake, speedboat riding between dances on the moonlit pavilion—riding—swimming—laughing. . . .

"That's not good."

The voice jarred her out of the warm picture. The lead girl was examining her work. Her face tight with disapproval. "You'll have to do it over again. And this time . . ."

For one instant, Julie was ready to throw down the exasperating piece of work. What did the slight change matter anyhow? This was ridiculous—her sitting here trying to please this stranger with the deep-wrinkled brow.

Then a warm content swept through her irritation. She listened obediently to instructions. What did it matter for a night or so?

FINE PROGRAM PHILOMEL MEETING

Mrs. Harriet Wilkins was chairman Wednesday afternoon for a beautiful program of two-piano music presented for the Philomel Club meeting at the Woman's Club. Besides the instrumental numbers, Gloria Valone made her first appearance as vocalist and was very well received.

President Allie Russell called attention to the orchestra and band concert to be presented by school students under Harry Summers' direction on February 24; also to the card party to be given by the Woman's Club on February 17. She announced the study of "Romantic Composers" for next Wednesday, in charge of Mrs. John Ekey, substituting for Mrs. James E. Hazletine, who is still ill. Continuing that theme, Mrs. Harold Flowers will have the February 23 program.

To conclude the afternoon, Mrs. Arthur Franks and her committee served a Valentine tea from a table prettily done in hearts and white carnations.

WOMEN OF MOOSE HOLD MEETING

Warren Chapter, Women of the Moose, held its regular meeting last evening with a turkey supper and a birthday cake honoring Mary Kirberger. The attendance prize for the evening went to Gertrude Bonnell.

During the business meeting, a gift was voted to the Mooseheart Administrative Fund and plans were made for a membership drive. Attention was called to the official visit of Christina Duckets, of Clearfield, on March 22, when a large class will be initiated.

Members were asked to report to Red Cross headquarters from seven until nine Friday evening to make surgical dressings.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. Elizabeth Strickland was honored guest last evening for a birthday surprise given by Miss Ruth Thompson, 511 E. East street. Members of the Jolly Twelve Club and a few friends enjoyed two tables of five hundred, prizes being awarded to Mrs. M. J. McMahon and Mrs. A. J. Aquist.

Lunch was served at a table prettily done in green and pink. Mrs. Strickland was the recipient of some lovely remembrances, together with best wishes for many more such happy occasions.

VALENTINE TEA

The annual valentine tea and meeting of the Little Heralds and Mother's Circle of the First Evangelical church will meet at the Folkman parlors tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock. Marine Corps Commandant
Highly Praises Blood Plasma

Alexandria, Va.—Blood plasma, a weapon of life "which goes ashore with the medical assault troops," is the foremost factor in saving the lives of hundreds of America's fighting Leather-necks, according to Lt.-Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, USMC, who returned from the Pacific area to take over as Commandant of the Marine Corps Jan. 1.

In his office in the Arlington
Navy Annex, General Vandegrift, who led the attacks on Guadalcanal and Bougainville before returning to this country to replace Lt.-Gen. Thomas J. Holcomb, retiring Commandant, told the story of blood plasma's life-saving campaign in the South Pacific.

"Plasma was administered to many members of the attacking party at Tarawa in the Gilbert Islands," he said, "and we had it with us when we took Guadalcanal and drove against the Japanese at Bougainville."

"Plasma continues to rank first among the three factors largely responsible for the small percentage of deaths among wounded

CONFEREES MEET HERE
Conferees from the various counties in Congressional District
No. 19 held a meeting here today at which they discussed the appointing of delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention. Luncheon was enjoyed and a business session held but no decision had been reached at the time of going to press.

RESUMING PRACTICE
It will interest his many friends to know that Dr. Wayne Helmbrecht has been honorably discharged from services to the aviator forces with the American Red Cross and will soon be resuming his practice at his new residence, 101 Second avenue, the property formerly owned by Mrs. J. Augustus Jones.

CENTER PRACTICE
Chiefs and members of service, with staff members, will hold their monthly practice session at the Civilian Defense Corps command center here at 7:30 p. m. Monday. This is in conjunction with state control center exercises and every member is asked to make a special effort to be in attendance.
Chiefs of each section will hold a special meeting to determine future action, according to announcement by Acting Commander A. L. Langdon.

First Meeting of the Second Half Is Important Game For Both Teams; Main Go at 8:00

This is the big night in the YMCA Basketball league when the Mighty Sheffield O'Connors come to town set to take the steel outfit of Irvine into camp to revenge their last week's defeat at their hands and put themselves in good position for coping the second half crown. It's a "natural" from the standpoint of the local fans and promises to match last week's battle in thrills.

This is the first meeting of the second half and the Irvine gang is out to deploy their forces to ambush the O'Connors and chase them back to their home grounds with another victory tagged over them. But on the other hand, the Irish have determined to outflank the Irvine boys and

Texas Open Is Not So Distinctive

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10.—(AP)—This 23-year-old Texas open golf tournament isn't the distinctive thing it used to be, but it has character.

Firing in the main event does not begin until tomorrow but by dawn today the first players in the pro-amateur affair were moving out of Brackenridge Park course.

Duration National Open Champion Craig Wood, former titlist Byron Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, top money winner of the winter swing who has taken six of nine major tournaments, headed the glittering array of talent.

Erie and Bradford Will Be Admitted to PONY League

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Directors of the Class D PONY Baseball League met today to formally admit Erie and Bradford, Pa., increasing the membership to eight teams for the second time in its six-year history.

One of three circuits expected to operate (the others are the Appalachian and Ohio State), the PONY "is certain to go and have a big season" in 1944, League President Robert C. Stedler said. "Only a stoppage order from government officials can prevent it."

Stedler expressed confidence Jamestown would field a team despite the withdrawal of the St. Louis Cardinals from the city. The Cardinals had operated the Jamestown franchise last year under an agreement with owner Harry Bissinger.

There is no dearth of Class D players, and Jamestown could either operate independently or enter into a working agreement with some major league club, or possibly with Buffalo in the International League, Stedler asserted.

With admission of Erie and Bradford, the PONY becomes the only league in the nation to expand during the war, Stedler said. The PONY has operated as a six-team circuit since its inception in 1939 with the exception of 1942 when it had eight clubs.

Bradford, an original member, dropped out of the league in 1943. The non-operative Middle-Atlantic League granted Erie permission to join the PONY. Teams now in the circuit are Jamestown, Wellsville, Batavia, Hornell, Olean and Lockport, all in New York.

All of the clubs are in good financial condition, Stedler said. The league plans a 126-game schedule, opening the last week in April.

Big Problem For Pros Is Material

Pittsburgh, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Playing material looks like the big problem for all professional league teams, Charles (Chili) Walsh, Cleveland Rams grid coach said here today as he conferred with the Pittsburgh Steelers' co-owner Art Rooney.

But both were non-committal on prospects of their two clubs merging for the 1944 season as the Steelers and Philadelphia Eagles did last year to their mutual benefit both in games won and at the box office.

Walsh who has already announced that his gridgers will play this year after sitting out the 1943 campaign, said he has a nucleus of nice freshmen and one back-end player who were with other National League clubs last season under the player distribution pact.

The Steelers have announced they will not team up with the Eagles unless they can get one half of the same games in Pittsburgh.

Former Jimtown Pilot Moves On

Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Jack Sanford, playing manager of the Wilkes-Barre club of the Penna. baseball league last season, will replace Tony Lazzari as manager of the Wilkes-Barre Barons of the Eastern Baseball League.

His appointment to succeed the former New York star, whose Wilkes-Barre contract was not renewed, was announced last night by Mike McNally, business manager.

Sanford, 33, lives in Lakewood, N. Y., is married and the father of two. He formerly played with Wilmington, Del.; Zanesville, O.; Little Rock, Ark.; Birmingham, Ala.; Los Angeles, Baltimore and Batavia, N. Y.

The marriage rate of the United States was 50 per cent higher in 1942 than in 1932.

Local Folk Will Pay Visit To Prisoner

Through one of those sets of peculiar circumstances which go to make up what is termed a coincidence, it is learned that while Private Gabriel Chimenti, of Warren, prepares with overseas troops in England for the invasion of Europe his father, Louis Chimenti, 423 Pennsylvania avenue, west, will be in Ogden, Utah, to visit Bers, Gabriele T. Chimenti, Italian prisoner of war taken by our troops in Africa.

In January of this year, Mr. Chimenti received a letter from his nephew telling of the young bersagliere's presence in the prisoner of war camp. Correspondence followed and on Wednesday Mr. Chimenti received a letter from the camp director, Capt. W. D. Ginnivan, granting permission for a visit.

Mr. Chimenti has made reservations for the trip on Sunday and will be accompanied by his younger son, Frank, and possibly two of his brothers, Frank and John Chimenti, also of Warren.

They will be permitted to see the young Italian prisoner one hour each day for three successive days and may take him such gifts as tobacco, cookies, candy, underwear and socks.

The young prisoner is a son of Leonard Chimenti
